

Health Communication Minor

The Health Communication Minor is designed to prepare students with the communication knowledge and skills to work in a health-related field. Students will complete courses that focus on development of communication skills, research methodology, and theory in the health communication field.

This checklist is based on the current Academic Catalog and is subject to change. Students should meet with their academic advisor each semester and use Degree Works to monitor their individual progress toward completion of the minor.

It is recommended that students consult with their advisor to select a sequence of courses that fit with their career goals. Prerequisites may be waived at the discretion of the department chair in consultation with the minor advisor and course instructor.

Communication Studies majors may cross count a MAXIMUM of 6 credits in both the major and Health Communication Minor.
